THE HAMPTONS.

Woman Has the Special Right to Con fort the Sick, to Care for the Poor and to Solicit Charities-Husbands Should Confide Their Troubles to Their Wives. THE HAMPTONS, Sept. 4.—The Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage's text today was from Solomon's Song, vi. 8: "There are three-

Following is the sermon So Solomon, by one stroke, set forth the imperial character of a true Christian woman. She is not a slave, not a bireling, not a subordinate, but a queen; and in my text Solomon sees sinty of these helping to make up the royal pageant of Jesus. In a former sermon I showed you that crown and courtly attendants, and imperial wardrobe were not necessary to make a queen; but that graces of the heart and life will give coronation to any woman. I showed you at some length that woman's position was higher in the world than man's, and that although she had often been denied the right of suffrage, she always did vote and always would vote by her influence; and that her chief desire ought to be that she should have grace rightly to rule in the dominion which she has already won. I began an enumeration of some of her rights, and this morning resume the sub-

In the first place, woman has a special and superlative right-not again going back to what I have already said - woman has the special and superlative right blessing and comforting the sick.

What land, what street, what house has not felt the smitings of disease? Tens of thousands of sick beds! What shall we do with them? Shall man, with his rough hand and clumsy foot go stumbling around the sick room trying to soothe the distracted nerves, and alleviate the pains of the tossing patient? The young man at college may scoff at the idea of being under maternal influences: but at the first blast of the typhoid fever. on his cheek, he says; "Where is moth-Walter Scott wrote partly in satire and partly in compliment when he said; Uncertain, coy and hard to please When pain and anguish wring the brow, ministering angel thou I think the most pathetic passage of all the Bible is the description of the lad who went out to the harvest field of Shunem and got sunstruck—throwing his hands on his temples and crying out: "Oh, my head! my head!" and they "Carry him to his mother." And then the record is: "He sat on her knees till noon, and then died." It is an awful thing to be ill away from home in strange hotel, once in a while men coming in to look at you, holding their hand over their mouth for fear they will catch the contagion. How roughly they turn you in bed. How loudly they talk. How you long for the ministries of home. I knew one such who went away from one of the brightest of homes, for several weeks' business absence at the west. A telegram came at midnight that he was on his death bed, far away from home. By express train the wife die, but he was in an agony to live until his family got there. He tried to bribe the doctor to make him live a little while longer. He said; "I am willing to die, but not alone." But the pulses fluttered. the eyes closed and the heart stopped. The express trains met in the midnight: wife and daughters going westward-lifeless remains of hysband and father coming enstward. Oh, it was a sad, pitiful, overwhelming spectacle! When we want to die at home. The room may be very humble, and the faces that look into ours may be very plain; but who cares or that? Loving hands to bathe the temples. Loving voices to speak good cheer. Loving lips to read the comforting promises of Jesus. In our last dreadful war, men cast the cannon; men fashioned the musketry; men cried to the their battalions on the sharp edges of the enemy, crying: "Charge! charge!" but the dying couch; woman wrote the last message to the home circle; woman wept at the solitary burial attended by herself and four men with a spade. We greeted the general home with brass bands, and triumphal arches, and wild huzzas; but the story is too good to be written anywhere, Mrs. Brady, who came down among the sick in the swamps of the Chickahominy; of Margaret Breckinridge, who came to men who had been for weeks with their em over those that had an arm left waved it and filled the air with their "hurrah;" of Mrs. Hodge, who came from Chicago with blankets and with pillows, until the men shouted: "Three cheers for the Christian commission! God bless the women at home!" then sitting down to take the last message: Tell my wife not to fret about me, but to meet me in heaven; tell her to train up the boys whom we have loved so well; tell her we shall meet again in the good and; tell her to bear my loss like the Christian wife of a Christian soldier;' and of Mrs. Shelton, into whose face the convalescent soldier looked and said: Your grapes and cologne cured me. Men did their work with shot and shell and carbine and howitzer; women did their work with socks and slippers and I prove by the statement that three oundages and warm drinks and Scripture texts and gentle strokings of the hot in all Christendom are women. So God temples and stories of that land where they never have any pain. Men knelt for bringing this world back to God. I may down over the wounded and said: "On stand here and say the soul is immortal side did you fight? Women There is a man who will refute it. cries of distress in that cellar. Men will faith and the consistency of Christ's Gossleep, and women will watch. Again, woman has a superlative right to take care of the poor. There are hundreds and thousands of them all over the land. There is a kind of work that vate home life. A consistent, conse men cannot do for the poor. Here comes crated Christian service is an unanswera

Home influences, consecrated, Christian home influences, these masculine hands could fit a hat to are the mightiest of all influences upor that little girl's head? Which of the wise the soul. There are men here today who men would know how to tie that new pair of shoes? Man sometimes gives his charity in a rough way, and it falls like the fruit of a tree in the east, which fruit comes down so heavily that it breaks the skull of the man who is trying to gather it. But woman glides so softly into the house of destitution, and finds out all the sorrows of the place, and puts so quietly the donation on the table, that all the family come out on the front steps as she departs, expecting that from under men would know how to tie that new have maintained their integrity, not be as she departs, expecting that from under her shawl she will thrust out two wings and go right up toward heaven, from whence she seems to have come down. I stand before women today who have the eternal salvation of their husbands in their right hand. On the marriage day whence she seems to have come down. O Christian young woman! if you would make yourself happy and win the blessing of Christ, go out among the destitute. A loaf of bread or a bundle of socks may make a homely load to carry, but the angels of God will come out to watch, and the Lord Almighty will give his messenger hosts a charge, saying: "Look after that woman. Canopy her with your wings and shelter her from all harm;" and while you are seated in the house of destitution and suffering, the little ones around the room will whisper: "Who is she? Ain't she beautiful?" and if you will listen right sharply you will hear dripping down through the leaky roof and rolling over the rottenstairs, the angel chant that shook Bethlem: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men." Can you tell me why a Christian woman, going down among the haunts of iniquity and chalmers, the daughter of the

That woman is the best sheltered who sheltered by the Lord God Almighty, and you need never fear going anywhere where God tells you to go.

Backed up by barrels in which there is no flour, and by stoves in which there is no fire, and by ward robes in which there are no clothes. woman is irresistible; passing on her errand God says to her: "You go into that bank, or store, or shop, and get the She goes in and gets it. The man is hard fisted, but she gets it. could not help but get it. It is decreed from eternity she should get it. No need of your turning your back and pretending you don't hear; you do hear. There is no need of your saying you are begged to death. There is no need of your wast ing your time, and you might as well submit first as last. You had better right away take your check book, mark the number of the check, fill up the blank, sign your name and hand it to her. There is no need of wasting time. Those poor children on the back street have been hungry long enough. That sick man must have some farina. That consumptive must have something to ease his cough. I meet this delegate of a re lief society coming out of the store of such a hard fisted man, and I say: "Die you get the money?" "Of course," says, "I got the money; that's what I went for. She is called the weaker vessel; but all profane as wel as sacred history attests that when the crisis comes she is better prepared than man to meet the emergency. How often on have seen a woman who seemed to e a disciple of frivolity and indolence who, under one stroke of calamity changed to a heroine. Portals and partitions inlaid with tortoise shell, mother of pearl and ivory, divide the little side chapel from the central passageway between them and the sacred rock, the scene of Abraham's awful obedience and of the sacrifices which interpreted to men and made them partakers of the one great sacrifice of the Son of God. We saw the opening cut in the rock for the escape of the sacrificed blood, and, descending int the excavation below, we found a sim lar opening communicating with a duct which discharged into a cesspool by the Brook Kedron.

We crossed the outer southern court, and passing the fountain supplied by the water at its grander predecessor on the backs of the brazen oxen, we descended beneath the present mosque, El Aksar, close to the Mosque of Omar, into the very same gallery which led to the old temple from the south, and up which our Lord walked again and again when he was here. It is now half filled with rubbish and earth, but the ceiling is still so high above that we needed to be re minded that the ground level is far down under the rubble. The pillars in single, solid blocks, the round keyston in the roof, and the lintels of long single tones are witnesses of the glory which has departed. Leaving this gallery we climbed the city walls by the Golden Gate and, walking south at the angle o the walls, we descended underground into the stables of Solomon. That they may have been utilized by him, and certainly were by the Crusaders, the halter rings declare; but it seems that the terms them, for the destruction which original intention was to raise the level they cause to food fish, especially along of the valley, and the thick forest of pillars are chiefly for support.-Quiver,

A Boston capitalist, who is a leading nerchant as well as a large owner of eal estate, is noted for the interest h ipon him to say that, by the mistake of one of the clerks, a check of the merchant's had got into the pigeon hole marked "protested." As Mr Millions might have heard a rumor that ier hastened to explain and said that he would discharge promptly young man who made the mistake "And why discharge him, mildly asked Mr. Millions. "Because he put your check in 'protested' box.

"It is a good many years," said Mi Millions as he tilted back in his office chair, and after his fashion harpooning his blotting pad with his pen, "sine was a young man, but my memory that I sometimes made mistakes. If I had been discharged for every mistake a made, I should not have made my for tune. The young man whose mistake pointed out to him and forgiven is the nost careful man in the office ever ations with your bank are likely to rolonged if the young man is not d And the young man was not arged. - Boston Transgript.

He Was Always Honest. When Abraham Lingqin was a cle. in a dry goods store he sold a wom little bill of goods, amounting alue by the reckoning to $2.061. received the money, and the wom-went away. On adding the items the bill again to make himself sure of correctness, he found that he had taken 61 cents too much. It was night, but, olosing and locking the store, he started out on fact, a distance of two or three miles, for the house of the defrauded systemer, and distreging the store of the defrauded systemer, and distreging the same than the same phase passession. over to her the sum whose possession had so much troubled him, went home
